Curriculum Vitae

Shari is a medical doctor and frequent public speaker on the topics of Digitalisation and Innovation of Healthcare and their related ethical implications and problems.

An expert on e-health, Shari is Chief Digital Officer of the Neurorecovery Group in Switzerland and CEO of Relearnlabs GmbH in Berlin. She is also a member of the Investment Committee of Aescuvest, the leading European crowdfunding platform for health. In the past, Shari has advised numerous start-ups and corporate organisations on the future of health. The focus of her work is finding solutions as to how digitalisation can aid in the minimisation of the burden of disease and healthcare costs while avoiding risks for the individual and society as such.

Shari holds a degree in medicine from the Ludwig Maximilian University (LMU) of Munich and gained practical experience in London and Shanghai during her studies. She completed her PhD in Neuroscience at LMU and holds an MBA degree from IE Business School in Madrid.
